

Every now and then life blesses us with experiences where flow happens. Where we are on purpose and though it may be challenging the work seems to happen effortlessly. Where we are inspired and focused. Quilting is like that for me. I feel as if I'm sitting at the feet of the gods when I am designing and bringing those designs to life. I often think about the first time I had an experience with flow and that was learning how to fly when I was 16. In just two weeks and with just 10 hours of flight time I soloed in a Cessna 150. I couldn't have done it without flow. This block is directly inspired from the Cessna logo - the plane that I learned how to fly in. Though you can see the image of a plane best with two or three fabrics it is still graphically fun when you use many fabrics.
